

Integrated Fellowships in Palliative Medicine

Training academic leaders in Palliative Medicine.

Opportunities for individuals who envision a career in academic palliative medicine or who want to combine palliative medicine training with any subspecialty of internal medicine, including: hematology-oncology, cardiology, geriatrics, pulmonary/critical care.

Applications for clinicians trained in the fields of emergency medicine and physical medicine & rehabilitation are also encouraged.

As a fellow, you will:

- benefit from a comprehensive curriculum encompassing patient care, education, research, leadership and program development.
- receive intensive one-on-one mentoring from nationally recognized leaders.
- have the opportunity for substantial protected time to pursue original, mentored research and flexibility to accommodate individual professional interests.
- become eligible for board certification in palliative medicine, now recognized as a subspecialty under the American Board of Medical Specialties.
- be able to tailor the curriculum to your career goals, whether it be as a clinician-educator or clinician-investigator.

The logo for Mount Sinai, featuring the words "Mount Sinai" in white serif font on a black rectangular background.

Learn more and apply.

Go to www.mssm.edu/palliative/fellowship,
email us at palliativecare@mssm.edu or call 212.241.1446.

Applications are now being accepted for academic years 2008 and beyond.