

The information shared in this broadcast is also available on Mount Sinai Daily

March 10, 2023

Observance of COVID-19 Remembrance Day

This Saturday, March 11, marks three years since the World Health Organization declared COVID-19 a global pandemic. COVID-19 Remembrance Day will be observed throughout The Mount Sinai Hospital today, March 10. Please join us in the Guggenheim Pavilion Atrium today from 11:30 am to 1:30 pm for a special tabling event with the Department of Spiritual Care and Education and the Office of Well-being and Resilience.

We will commemorate this anniversary and share wellness resources. We will also offer river stones at the table, and invite you to hold one and reflect on these past three years.

We continue to hold in our hearts all our colleagues, family, and friends who we lost to COVID-19.