Do the COVID-19 vaccines protect me from the Omicron variant?

Yes.

• Our current vaccines are expected to prevent hospitalizations and deaths from infection with the Omicron variant.
• Though breakthrough infections may occur, the vaccines are still providing powerful and important protection against severe illness.
• Getting vaccinated—including your booster shot—is the best way to help end the pandemic, and protect yourself, your loved ones, and your co-workers.