

Do the COVID-19 vaccines contain any ingredients that conflict with religious practices or beliefs?

No.

- The COVID-19 vaccines made by Pfizer-BioNTech, Moderna, and Johnson & Johnson do not contain any cells from fetuses.
- These vaccines do not contain ingredients from cows, pigs, or any other animals.
- Leaders in the Roman Catholic, Jewish, Muslim, Protestant, Buddhist, Sikh, and Hindu faiths have been vaccinated and are promoting vaccination.
- Getting vaccinated is the best way to help end the pandemic, and protect yourself, your loved ones, and your co-workers.
