What is monkeypox?
Monkeypox is a virus that is characterized by the following symptoms:
- Rash
- Fatigue
- Fever
- Muscle Aches
- Swollen Lymph Nodes

How is monkeypox treated?
There is no specific treatment approved for monkeypox. Most cases are mild and get better on their own.

Do most people need to get vaccinated?
No. Vaccination is appropriate for people who are at high risk for monkeypox, or who were exposed to it and do not yet have symptoms.