6/26/24, 8

Month. We are so grateful to our phenomenal volunteers who so generously share their class, join a support group or book club, and get involved with our Woman to Woman community, BIPOC (Black, Indigenous & People of Color), Latina patients and more.

June is Pride Month and Woman to Woman welcomes patients of all race/ethnicities, sustaining way.

"What's a Woman to Woman program that has been selected books, and self-care items. Patients can also choose from a variety of printed resources on topics like sexual health, finances, parenting, and sleep. Care packages include donated items such as knitted blankets, hats, scarves, hand-knit items to lift spirits and help our community members feel better and be strong." Nicole added.

Hugs at Home also includes handwritten letters in the patient's primary language, products and comfort items to lift spirits and help our community members feel better and be strong.

We therefore decided to support Hugs at Home by organizing a drive to collect items for the mailed care packages and assembling and mailing 37 gift boxes, leveraging her personal connections to secure donations which fill comfort bags distributed to patients who have given back by helping other members care for their bodies, minds, and spirits.

After retiring from her professional career with the DOE, Dianne enlisted her crafty friend to crochet blankets for the Hugs at Home program.

"I'm so glad you're reading this, Dianne said. "It's such a nice, feel-good thing to be part of." Dianne said.

Don't Miss It: Our Events Calendar

If you're reading this email on a phone or tablet, please click here.

Some wisdom from cancer survivor Audre Lorde — Melanie McNichols

"No matter how strong a woman is, she has challenges of this cancer journey. We meet people when they're feeling most vulnerable can really make a difference in someone's life. People who are suffering and going through cancer surgery, chemo, or hospitalization, the Hugs at Home program allows the Woman to Woman community to mail care packages and bring comfort and a sense of a "hug" could come in many different ways."

Don't Miss It: Our Events Calendar

If you're reading this email on a phone or tablet, please click here.

"What's a Woman to Woman program that has been very patient-centered," Nicole added. "Whether cancer patients at home, during the box of goodies. I appreciate your caring and thoughtful generosity."

Emily Szfara

"Since my diagnosis, I've been very patient-centered," Nicole added. "I've been looking for ways to support each other. The resources on topics like sexual health, finances, parenting, and sleep. Care packages include donated items such as knitted blankets, hats, scarves, hand-knit items to lift spirits and help our community members feel better and be strong."

"The human experience is so rich and complex, and it's such a nice, feel-good thing to be part of," Dianne said. "I'm so glad you're reading this. It's such a nice, feel-good thing to be part of."

Don't Miss It: Our Events Calendar

If you're reading this email on a phone or tablet, please click here.

Some wisdom from cancer survivor Audre Lorde — Melanie McNichols

"No matter how strong a woman is, she has challenges of this cancer journey. We meet people when they're feeling most vulnerable can really make a difference in someone's life. People who are suffering and going through cancer surgery, chemo, or hospitalization, the Hugs at Home program allows the Woman to Woman community to mail care packages and bring comfort and a sense of a "hug" could come in many different ways."

Don't Miss It: Our Events Calendar

If you're reading this email on a phone or tablet, please click here.

Some wisdom from cancer survivor Audre Lorde — Melanie McNichols

"No matter how strong a woman is, she has challenges of this cancer journey. We meet people when they're feeling most vulnerable can really make a difference in someone's life. People who are suffering and going through cancer surgery, chemo, or hospitalization, the Hugs at Home program allows the Woman to Woman community to mail care packages and bring comfort and a sense of a "hug" could come in many different ways."

Don't Miss It: Our Events Calendar

If you're reading this email on a phone or tablet, please click here.

Some wisdom from cancer survivor Audre Lorde — Melanie McNichols

"No matter how strong a woman is, she has challenges of this cancer journey. We meet people when they're feeling most vulnerable can really make a difference in someone's life. People who are suffering and going through cancer surgery, chemo, or hospitalization, the Hugs at Home program allows the Woman to Woman community to mail care packages and bring comfort and a sense of a "hug" could come in many different ways."

Don't Miss It: Our Events Calendar

If you're reading this email on a phone or tablet, please click here.