Black Men’s Prostate Cancer Initiative:
Support Group

The Black Men’s Prostate Cancer Initiative support groups provide prostate cancer education resources and support specifically for Black men diagnosed with prostate cancer. Our support groups under this initiative are currently fully remote, with the group being led by two licensed mental health professionals.

2nd and 4th Monday of each month at 8pm EST

To register please visit: https://zerocancer.org/get-support/black-mens-prostate-cancer-initiative/

Chemo Companions and Peer Support

Chemo Companions pairs up patients with medical and graduate school students to regularly attend appointments and provide support throughout patients’ chemotherapy treatment at Ruttenberg Treatment Center. Contact anna.gribetz@mountsinai.org or 646-574-1008

Are you diagnosed with prostate cancer and would be interested in being matched with a peer mentor? Jean Claude is our current peer mentor. He is a patient at Mount Sinai Hospital where he was treated for prostate cancer in 2005. Since 2007 he has worked with cancer patients as a volunteer at Mount Sinai Hospital’s Ruttenberg Treatment Center. For more information reach out to Anna.gribetz@mountsinai.org

“Can I eat soy products with a history of breast cancer?”

What foods contain soy?
Some examples of foods that contain soy are tofu, soy milk, edamame, and many more!

Does soy increase breast cancer risk?
Soy foods are rich in phytoestrogens, which structurally look similar to estrogen. However, phytoestrogens and estrogen are NOT the same compound.

-There are numerous observational studies that have found women who regularly consumed soy foods had a lower risk of developing breast cancer. As these are observational studies, direct correlation between soy and breast cancer cannot be made.

Can I eat soy products with a history of breast cancer?
-While there is not enough research to warrant a recommendation for all survivors to increase soy consumption, it is safe to consume in moderation. Best to choose natural soy foods, like tofu, edamame and soy milk.

-Research has not been conducted on soy supplements or soy protein isolate (the ingredient in many plant-based meat alternatives), so best to stick with natural forms of soy!
