

Icahn School of Medicine at Mount
Sinai

*Corinne Goldsmith
Dickinson Center for Multiple Sclerosis*

MS Interactions

News From the CGD Center

Winter 2026 Newsletter

A Calling to Care: Inside the Mount Sinai MS Center

At the Corinne Goldsmith Dickinson Center for Multiple Sclerosis (MS), care is more than a job; it's a shared mission. Led by Fred Lublin, MD, a deeply committed team of physicians, researchers, and staff work together to support patients through every stage of MS, advancing care, research, and community along the way.

Discover Our Approach to MS Care >

A Year of Progress, Partnership, and Purpose

As we enter 2026 and celebrate the 25th year of the Corinne Goldsmith Dickinson Center for Multiple Sclerosis, our team reflects on a year of meaningful progress.

From research breakthroughs and new clinical trials to expanded wellness care and national recognition for our faculty, 2025 was driven by the shared goal of improving life with MS.

See the Highlights From Our Team >

Featured Expert: Sam Horng, MD, on Autoimmune Encephalitis

In a recent news article, Dr. Horng shares his expertise on autoimmune encephalitis, a condition in which the immune system attacks the brain. He explains how new discoveries are helping doctors recognize this rare but treatable condition earlier.

Read the Full Story >