

For All Health Care Providers

Doctors' Digest

Integrating Occupational Medicine Best Practices into Primary and Specialty Care

The Mount Sinai Institute for Exposomic Research will host a CME conference on climate change and patient care Saturday, January 12, 2019. This event aims to improve clinicians' performance and patient outcomes across specialties, including: primary care, occupational medicine, pediatrics, emergency medicine, and more.

Speakers from occupational medicine include Roberto Lucchini, MD; Emily Senay, MD, MPH; and Ismail Nabeel, MD, MPH. They will share insight into the impacts of climate change on worker health. Early bird registration closes December 14.

Learn more at clinicalclimatechange.com

Clinical Climate Change

Patients, Populations, and Providers and the Impacts of Global Warming

Saturday, January 12, 2019
New York City, NY

Register at clinicalclimatechange.com

This full day CME conference will offer 8.25 AMA PRA Category I Credits™ and connect public health professionals, policy makers, physicians, nurses, front line staff, and allied health professionals with up-to-date evidence based information on the impact of climate change on the health of populations to inform patient treatment and care.

Topics will include:

- Chronic and Infectious Diseases
- Occupational and Environmental Exposures
- Pediatric Care
- Psychiatry
- Medical System Preparedness
- Patient Communications

This activity has been planned and implemented in accordance with the Accreditation Requirements and Policies of the Medical Society of the State of New York (MSSNY) through the joint providership of the Westchester Academy of Medicine and the Department of Environmental Medicine and Public Health, Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai. The Westchester Academy of Medicine is accredited by MSSNY to provide Continuing Medical Education for physicians.

Learn More

This newsletter was launched in 2018 to facilitate referrals for workers' compensation patients and improve access to occupational medicine resources. If you would like to stop receiving this newsletter, please click the "unsubscribe" link below.